By Telegraph to The Times.
New York, May 11.—[By the Associated Press.] This morning a paper has a Washington dispatch stating that last night the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer telegraphed his paper an interview with John Sherman, apropos of ex-Senator Platt's announcement in Nashville yesterday that he considered Senator John Sherman a very strong candidate for the Presidency.

Sherman said: "I am all over the hallucination. I do not expect the nom-

My judgment is that Harrison will be nominated on the first ballot. If he is not, I can then see that he is in danger. If he is not nominated on the first ballot the convention may go volens volens to Blaine. I am not expecting the nomination. I am doing nothing to promote it. My name will not be mentioned.

tioned in the convention unless Mr. Harrison is defeated and the delegates are seeking another man. I am in no sense a candidate."

Augusta, Me., one of Blaine's most faithful followers, has been in Washington for several days and held a number of consultations with Blaine.

Before leaving for home he said: "There is nothing in this new talk about Blaine and the Presidency. Wh he wrote the letter last February. Clarkson, in which he stated that his name would not go before the convention for nomination, he meant it. He has not changed his mind since. He says frankly to those who speak to him on the subject that he feels better than for a long time and knows no reason why he should not live a number years, but he is conscious that he cannot endure a great, unusual strain. He does not intend to place himself in a position where such a strain could be avoided."

Connecticut Democrats.
NEW HAVEN (Ct.,) May 10.—The Democratic State Convention met this morning.

On reassembling Gen. Beardsley New Haven was made permanent chairman. Mention of the name of Cleland in his address aroused unbounded enthusiasm. Delegates cheered and threw up their hats. Then three cheers were given for him. They were followed by cheers for Hill mingled with a few hisses from the Cleveland men.

Delegates to the national convention were then selected. The platform lauds the statesmanship and lo-

The State of Iowa will send a se-

These instructions were emphatic, and the Hawkeye Democrats will not think of a second choice until Boies no longer has hope of receiving national favor. Cleveland Has Nothing to Say.
NEW YORK, May 10.—A reporter today sent a copy of Henry Watters' statement, that Grover Cleveland is preparing a letter of withdrawal, to Cleveland. Watters' statement was turned with the following in Cleland's handwriting on the back: "I have nothing to say upon the subject."

A Duel by the Potomac.
WASHINGTON, May 10.—It is reported that two young physicians from Baltimore, one a Dr. Gaskins, fought a duel on the banks of the Potomac, in ginia, yesterday afternoon. The we-ons were rapiers. Each particiwas intent on killing the other.

After five minutes of spiri-fencing one slipped; his versary raised his weapon when falling man took advantage of the oping and thrust his sword into his rival's neck, inflicting a serious wound—at least, so the story goes. The wounded man was brought to Washington and cared for. His name is not known. Dr. C. H. Kins, who inflicted the wound, was sentenced by Dr. Marden and an associate.

Actor Goodwin Divorced.
NEW YORK, May 10.—Judge Truitt

the Supreme Court has signed a judgment and decree of separation in suit for a limited divorce brought by Nellie R. Goodwin against Nat Goodwin the actor. He is to pay $15,000 in lieu of alimony and one-half the proceeds from the sale of the furniture in the house in West End avenue, in addition to paying her attorneys' fees.

POLITICAL.

Meeting of the National Republican League Club.

Capt. Knapp Requested to Account His Collections—Speeches by May Hazard, Judge Magee and Several Others.

The National Republican League met in regular session in the basement of the California Bank building last night, Maj. J. A. Donnell presiding and thirty members present.

After the usual preliminaries had been disposed of a resolution offered by John C. Pirtle, instructing the secretaries to demand of J. F. Knapp a full list of his collections and the payment the balance due to the club, and rescinding the authority vested in him to collect funds for the club, was unanimously adopted. [This is the first time Knapp has been mentioned in the service of the Southern Pacific company in Arizona for malfeasance, who was afterward the tool of the road company in the Arizona Legislature. Likewise the same Knapp made his appearance in this city months ago as the representative $50,000 syndicate whose mission was to start a great newspaper, who ward organized a stock company itized at $50,000, for the same pose, of which $565 was subsequent and who has lately been passing representative of a $50,000 syndicate that was to purchase the Herald, which capacity he now stands.

Knapp is a great politico-journalist.

The following resolution, offered by Col. Neidig, was also adopted:

WHEREAS, there seems to be some unanimity in the proceedings of the League meeting recently held in San Francisco, so far as the Sixth Congress is concerned, in the election of a vice president to represent said district in the organization, and who has been hitherto elected, and who has been hitherto with the first vice-presidency in the organization, therefore be it

Resolved, that a committee of three appointed by the chairman to investigate said matter and report the result of investigation to the club at its next ing.

The chairman appointed Messrs Haynes, H. A. Neidig and J. C. as such committee.

Mayor Hazard was then introduced by the chairman and in response to invitation to address the club on subject of politics, made a characteristic speech of about thirty-five minutes.

He commenced gratulating the club on having organized and started out in the right direction, and stated that in his opinion machinery for the designation of government was getting reflection on that form of government itself, but upon the method whereby a system is perpetuated which enables corrupt influences

Judge Magee of Pasadena accompanied to an invitation with a personal address.

Ex-Gov. J. J. Gosper, James L. McLaughlin and Horace Appel entertained the meeting with short speeches, and Judge Magee had been designated the speaker for the next meeting.

PETTY OFFENDERS.
A Fair Day's Business in the Courts.
The case of Charles Gassen, arrested for disturbing the peace yesterday continued until this noon at 2 o'clock. In the meantime the young man languishes in the prison, his father having refused to pay the necessary bail for him.

George Tucker, the young man Azusa with an insatiable appetite for liquor, to gratify which he stole and bridle from Wickett's corral, was yesterday given ninety days on the chain gang to repent of his transgressions.

George Dixon, the man who was yesterday shot by a deputy sheriff, a young Mexican named Reyes restaurant a few nights ago, with 100 days on the chain gang by Owens.

Alf A. Stettman was assessed 100 days on the chain gang yesterday by Justice Austin for displaying in a threatening manner while in Alameda street red.

C. S. Metz, convicted of vagrancy, was given a "floater" of ninety days yesterday by Justice Owens, with twenty-four hours in which to get out.

Three drunks were in the Court yesterday and received doses of two to five days each in the chain gang.

Charles Pfirman, charged with larceny, was discharged, as was Charles Johnson, charged with malicious mischief (breaking windows) and the payment of all damages.

Last night Constable Faulkner brought to this city one of King's "vags," a boy named L. J. and lodged him in the County Jail. The commitment shows that L. J. had been tried and sentenced to ten years in the Justice King. The able counsel got his own name mixed up with the defendant's.

Mr. Dumas Vindicated.

In referring to the San Bernardino lottery swindle, yesterday morning an unfortunate error Dumas & that city were made to appear responsible for the fraud. As a fact Mr. Dumas was the one who called on Chief Glass and gave the ticket in the drawing, at the same time giving all information in his power and asking that the matter be investigated. The only connection Dumas had with the matter was that he purchased one of the tickets, and Clare, and was taken in with the victims. The error grew out of a misunderstanding in regard to the time when the story was given out for publication.

THE MILLS MEETINGS.

The Evangelist Keeping Up His Good Work.

No Falling Off in the Attendance at Simpson Tabernacle.

The Church Filled at Both Afternoon and Evening Services.

Programme for the Observance of the "Mid-week Sabbath" Today—Meetings to be Held at Various Places—Prayer-meetings.

Yesterday morning I met one of the leading ministers in the Mills meeting work, who said to me:

"I read the interview with a Socialist which you printed. I want to assure you that the soul of the poorest laborer is as dear to God and his people as is that of the richest man. The churches need the money of the rich to aid them in the work of soul-saving, as well as body-saving. We want all classes—we want everybody to be religious. I am aware of the feeling which keeps many of the poor away from the churches; that they do not feel at ease until they are converted, and that they are not so liable to conversion if they do not attend the churches. I believe that if a union chapel or tabernacle could be built by the people of all the churches in the city and served in turn by all the ministers that it would be productive of the greatest good. It could be conducted just as these Mills meetings are—as non-sectarian Christian work. We have demonstrated to ourselves how many good people can be called together in the work of the Master, and we should not lose the ground we have gained. Now that the churches have drawn so close together in their good work, I hope they will never drift apart. We have the germ of this good work in the union gospel meetings now conducted by Maj. Hilton, and out of that ought to grow this union tabernacle for which there is such a demand. The rich can take care of themselves, and now that their interest is awakened, we should ask them to share that which God has given them with those who have but little."

To an active layman I mentioned what the clergyman had said to me. "In addition to a union chapel we ought have a hospital in which we could care for the unfortunate who are connected with the union church organization. These people would feel that they had the right to go to such an institution without being considered objects of charity. If the ministers who have charge of this Mills work will take the initiative, they would be surprised to find the support they receive from the people. Why, I saw $50,000 raised in one year by the Methodists of Simpson Tabernacle to pay the building debt of that house. I believe one union meeting in this Christian people would bring in enough money to pay the cost of building a hospital."

The plan of work of Mr. Mills has now fully developed, so that all can understand that each of his sermons is a part of the whole work—each a lecture in the series, good of itself if none of the others are heard; yet he who misses one will feel regret that he has lost a link out of the chain.

The starting point of the sermon last night was that the absence of feeling is death. So clear did the speaker illustrate the idea that almost the whole audience seemed to feel a perceptible shudder at the thought that the absence of religious feeling meant the death of the soul. And as he pictured the sins which destroy the soul, it seemed that he included all in the list, for the audience in its entirety had the opportunity to include itself.

A gentleman said to me last night: "At first I was puzzled over the mystery of why these vast crowds are drawn together, but it all seems clear to me now. The speaker is in dead earnest."

That man had struck the keynote. Mr. Mills and the people who are working with him are in dead earnest. No one can look upon this work and fail to understand this fact. This was especially marked last night, when the speaker asked those who were willing to leave their sins to rise for a moment. As he appealed to them some one in the choir began singing in a low voice, "Just as I Am," and the spirit spread through the whole audience, and penitential feeling had become general.

The results of the services today will be apparent at the meeting tonight. If I am not mistaken it will be the first billow of the tidal wave which will surely be cast up by the spirit which is behind and beneath this movement.

JAY WALKER.

AT THE TABERNACLE.

Two More Services by Evangelist Mills.

Rev. Dr. Hutchins made the opening prayer at the afternoon service yesterday, Mr. Greenwood leading the service of song, and Hugh E. Smith of the First Methodist Church presiding at the organ. A large proportion of men were noticed in the congregation than at any previous afternoon service. Among the ministers on the platform was Rev. Dr. Garvin, pastor of the Pasadena Christian Church.

Evangelist Mills read the fifth chapter of Matthew, beginning with the thirteenth verse, for the Bible lesson, commenting as he read. His text was chosen from Matthew, fifth chapter, and a portion of the forty-seventh verse: "What do ye more than others?"

"A lady wrote me a letter once," he said, "stating that she didn't think it was a wise thing to acknowledge that church members who were in the vineyard. It would have a tendency to deter people from joining the church. Well, I think we have enough church members of a certain kind. If the salvation of Jesus Christ does not make us purer and tender, then we don't want it. A text involves a rigid self-searching."

"How is it about your personal purity? There is a vital difference between Christian purity and moral purity. The Christian's will becomes God's will, as the branch abides in the vine, so the abides in God. The natural life of a Christian is to blossom out into the perfect purity of Christ. The very principle of life in him is the life that produces purity, and he'd rather die than have his garments tainted with sin."

"Men think they cannot do business and be Christians. I asked a hotel proprietor to become a Christian, and he said he couldn't. Men say that they could not be commercial travelers, livery men or engage in other branches of business—and be Christians, and yet some of the most godly men I know have been engaged in just these lines of business."

"How is it about your daily life? A spirit of forgetfulness, impatience or worrying is a constant sin against God. Brotherly love and a forgiving spirit are tests of Christianity. If you are cherishing a bitter feeling against a brother you are a lost soul. How is it about trust in affliction? You can always tell a Christian in the dark. Sometimes not in prosperity, but in times of sudden peril and adversity and sickness and trouble, their light shines out."

"I had a friend who was an educated heathen. He did not know Christ but was one of the tenderest fathers I ever knew. He had five children and they all died but one. One morning he came over to my house and said, 'My last child is dead.' I knew not what to say to comfort him. At length he raised his head bowed with sorrow and said, 'I expect it has been done as well as I could do it, and I'll bear it like a man.' How many Christians would say that?"

"How is it about your relationship with the world? If any man loves the world the love of the Father is not in him. There's a great deal in what some one has termed the explosive power of affection. Only one thing can satisfy the soul, and that is the love of God."

"While the character of Christians ought to be the one unanswerable argument in favor of Christianity, it is the implement which infidels use for its overthrow. The most precious thing in the world is a worldly Christian. The terms are contradictory. You might as well speak of a heavenly devil or a white black man. It is a mongrel thing, an unnatural thing, and for the sake of a name we call it a worldly Christian."

"How is it about your personal effort and power in winning souls? 'What do ye more than others?' Alexander the Great had a coward brother before him for judgment. 'What is your name?' he asked, and the coward, thinking to curry favor, said: 'My name, too, is Alexander.' 'Man,' thundered the general, 'either change that name or honor it. Let us pray,' concluded the evangelist, and every head was bowed in reverence."

EVENING SERVICE.

The echo of gospel hymns sung by hundreds of voices again floated out from the auditorium last night, summoning the people to worship—an invitation of song to saint and sinner—and again a throng sufficient to crowd the building from dome to altar responded.

Many people stayed away because they thought they could not get seats, while others went away before the people were seated. Six hundred extra chairs have been provided, so that everybody can now be seated who will ask the ushers for chairs.

The evangelist spoke from the passage "Let the wicked forsake his way." It is a noticeable fact that a majority of Rev. Mr. Mills' sermons thus far have been addressed to members of the church, only three, including the one of last evening, being directed to those outside the pale of Christianity. Evidently his idea is to get the church right first before inviting sinners to join it.

"A wicked man," he declared, "is one who is not all he ought to be. Therefore it applies to every man who is not a grand, good, noble, pure, self-sacrificing Christian. I would not be willing to stand up here and ask a man to forsake his sin unless we first turned the search light upon the heart of the Christian. This matter of forsaking sin means the backslider and the mortalist. I am not the one to sneer at the mortal man. He is the next thing to a righteous man. But a man may be moral from negative motives; he may be honest because it is the best policy; benevolent because he has naturally a kind heart and it pains him less to give than to turn away. A righteous man is always moral, but a moral man is by no means always righteous. The Hon. Amos Kendall, some years ago Postmaster-General, came into a church in New York, and stood up and said: 'I have been a wicked man,' and everybody expected to hear him confess stealing some large sum, but he continued, 'because I have not been a member of the church of Jesus Christ.' A young man, who has made shipwreck of his life, said: 'If Amos Kendall could live outside the church I can.' I know of at least twelve young men who have felt the same. I have been a wicked man."

"A man who speaks unkindly of his mother is a gentleman compared with one who speaks contemptuously of the church of Jesus Christ. It shows him to be a wicked and unclean man. Christ uttered the severest words he ever spoke for such men—a wicked seculer, full of dead men's bones."

"God asks a wicked man to forsake his ways. One of the most delightful occupations some people have is forsaking other people's sins—using them as moral umbrellas. It is not very hard for a one-legged man to give up dancing."

The evangelist then related an instance in the life of a young Ohio man who had committed a crime but was acquitted. Soon after he was converted, and the memory of the crime weighed upon him that he confessed it to the judge who sentenced him, was tried and convicted of perjury and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, and he went behind the prison bars the happiest man in all that city. "No matter what your sin may have been—let it come out" was his plea.

Hon. James F. Fogg of Oakland, Gen. and Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Mrs. Gen. Stoneman and the Misses Stoneman, E. W. Spencer of Antelope Valley, J. M. Marble, Mrs. J. J. Ayers, Mrs. S. S. Salisbury were in attendance yesterday, and Mrs. Maj. Elderkin, Mrs. A. S. Averill and Mrs. K. M. Widney are always present.

Mrs. Mills, wife of the evangelist, usually accompanies him to the evening service, coming in with him on the Terminal road from Pasadena, where they are domiciled in a cottage among the roses. Mrs. Mills is a charming woman with a sweet expressive face.

Rev. Dr. Henning, editor of the Southern California Christian Advocate, was among the ministers on the platform last night, also Bishop Baker of the United Brethren Church.

TODAY'S PROGRAMME.

Today will be observed as the mid-week Sabbath and the services will begin as early as 6 o'clock with family prayer-meeting.

At 8 o'clock there will be neighborhood prayer-meetings throughout the city. At the same hour there will be a business men's prayer-meeting at 7:30 P. M. and at 8:15 another especially for the High school students at Temperance Temple.

At 9 o'clock there will be services at

PASADENA.

Annual Meeting of the Universalist Church.

An Open Meeting of Pasadena Lodge, I. O. G. T.

Reception to a Prominent Missionary Worker.

Various Items of Local Interest—South Pasadena Prohibitionists—Personal Notes and Comments—Batch of News.

As might have been expected, the Universalist parish reunion was largely attended Monday evening, and those present not only enjoyed a pleasant time socially, but were gratified by hearing very encouraging reports in all departments of the church work.

Supper was served at 6 o'clock and the business was taken up an hour later. The treasurer's report showed the receipts for the year to be $2500. At the beginning of the year the church was in debt, all of which has been cleared off, leaving a substantial balance in the treasury. Eighteen new members were received into the church. The reports of the trustees, clerk and financial secretary followed.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. Conger, in his report gave a general summary of the year's work. Attention was called to the fact that the church and Sunday-school were kept open every Sunday. The pastor also reported the progress of the church work, and the fact that the church was in a position to receive new members.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

Important Local Change Expected on the Santa Fe.

Cutting Rates to Denver—Now Eastbound Cutting Will Be in Order—General and Local Railroad Notes.

E. W. Magee of Springfield, Ill., for many years agent for the Wabash at that point, who made a brief visit to Los Angeles during the past winter, has returned to this city, bringing his family with him. Mr. Magee will take a responsible position with the Santa Fe Southern California lines. Though no official announcement has yet been made defining his duties, it is suspected that he will be placed in charge of the local passenger and ticket business in this city. It is supposed that Ticket Agent Charles T. Parsons, who for so long a time has faithfully served the company, and popularized himself and the road with the traveling public, but whose health has of late been affected by too close confinement, will be given another more agreeable position, and that Mr. Magee will assume charge of the city office. In the absence of definite official information on this subject this may be taken as a very close guess at the true facts.

A Phillips excursion of forty-six passengers went eastward yesterday. The summer timetable of the Southern California lines will go into effect on the 22nd inst.

Auditor H. C. Whitehead, of the Southern California lines, will attend the convention of railroad accounting officers, which will begin in Chicago on the 25th inst.

The Santa Fé is stirring up its competitors in the East by making an exceedingly low rate to the Denver and the Santa Fé. To protect itself from the secret rate cutting of its competitors it has given the required ninety days' notice to all members of that association that early in August it will establish round-trip first-class rates of $12 from Chicago and St. Louis to Denver.

MIDNIGHT SENSATION.

An Elopement at Burbank Spoiled by the Girl's Parents.

At 12:30 yesterday morning a lively race took place at Burbank. A well-known young man about town, who is not known by name to any of the Burbank people except a certain belle of that place that he has been paying attention to, attempted to elope with said belle, and a lively foot race was the outcome of his midnight venture.

He drove out early in the evening and held the girl in his arms. He is believed that she would not consent at first to run off with him, and he could not talk her over until about midnight, when the two started for the depot, where the blood had his team hitched.

The mother and father got wind of what was going on and followed the couple. Just as they were about to unhitch the horses the old lady rushed up and caught hold of her daughter and asked her what she was doing out at that hour of the night.

The girl boldly told her that she was going to Los Angeles to get married. The old lady began to cry and plead with her daughter, and finally fell on her knees and begged her daughter to return home. At this moment the girl broke away and started down the track at a two-foot gate.

Up to this moment the old man, for reasons best known to himself, remained behind the wheel of a tree out of sight, while the Los Angeles and returned by his team and kept his mouth shut, but as soon as papa saw his daughter chasing off with her mother close at her heels he made a rush for them.

The dude did not have to be told that he was in danger, so he started off in an opposite direction as fast as his legs could carry him. The old man hesitated a moment, when he gave chase, and the two men disappeared in opposite directions.

How long the chase lasted is not known, but the mother came back about daylight with her daughter tucked safely under her arm, and a little later the old man put in an appearance, but he did not have his daughter's lover in his clutches.

The young fellow did not return for his team, and it is not known what became of him, but he must have notified the police, and will not return until he has unearthed the whole thing.

Both men ready for the contest this evening. Billy Maber, lightweight champion of Australia, and Frank Purcell of Salt Lake, who claims a record unassailable by a single defeat, will meet in the ring of the Pastime Club this evening to settle the question of supremacy and an old score which has caused considerable bad blood.

The contest will be to a finish for a guaranteed purse of $500, at 185 pounds, and from all accounts more money will change hands on the result than has ever been wagered on any previous local pugilistic event. The reason for this is that Purcell is a very good fighter.

J. F. Burns, special agent of the Southern California Railway, will leave tomorrow for a short vacation in the northern citrus belt, accompanied by his wife and her sister, Mrs. Alice Taylor.

R. J. Johnson, a Philadelphia coal dealer, is visiting his cousin, Deputy Constable Harry Johnson of this city, and will take in all the principal places of interest on the coast before he returns home.

Dr. Henry Fisher, a member of the Philadelphia school board, is visiting friends in Los Angeles. He was a member of the city council of Philadelphia and is a prominent politician of that city.

J. Botta, who enlisted in the Union Army as a drummer boy when he was 12 years and 8 months old, and who has a medal giving him the distinction of being the youngest recruit in the service, is in the city, accompanied by his wife and Miss Cora Crispin. Botta is a resident of Richmond, Mo. He is one of the solid men of the place, and is now traveling for health and pleasure. Mr. Botta and party are stopping at the Hotel Arcadia.

Among the members of the editorial excursion en route for California are Mr. and Mrs. Bundy, of the Religio-Philosophical Journal, Chicago. Mr. Bundy is a member of the Executive Committee of the association, chairman of its committee on the gate from the Press Club of Chicago and the Chicago Publishers Association. Mrs. Bundy goes as a delegate from the Woman's Press League, a literary organization composed entirely of newspaper women.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

[News intended for this department should be furnished promptly, and sent addressed "The Times-Society News," accompanied by the name of the sender as a guarantee. Write briefly and plainly, giving the facts without needless verbiage.]

On Saturday night last Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morrill gave a reception at their beautiful home on Vermont avenue, University, the occasion being the celebration of their "Cotton Wedding."

In response to the artistic calling of invitation a goodly company of ladies and gentlemen were gathered to pay their several compliments to the host and hostess, and their bright, cheery smile and cordial welcome made even the most bashful feel at home. A very enjoyable evening was spent, the remembrance of which will linger for a long time to come in the memories of those who were the glad participants.

The refreshment table furnished a very important feature, and, judging from the younger members of the company, were highly appreciated. The success of the evening was greatly due to the kind and genial manner of the host and hostess, ably assisted by Miss Lee, and when Father Time informed all present that morn was approaching, all bid their kind entertainers adieu, and wished the happy couple all best wishes and good speed. The offerings of the guests for the occasion were numerous, artistic and useful.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Morrill, Sr. and Mrs. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Messmore, Mr. and Mrs. Millmore, Mr. and Mrs. Peasley, Miss Lee, the Misses Millmore, Miss E. Ballard, Miss Ina Bellville, Miss E. Ballard, Mrs. E. Ballard, Mrs. Bradley, Miss Williams, Miss Barrows, Mrs. Skelton, Mrs. Crockett, Mrs. Gilchrist, Mrs. Taylor, Mr. M. Morrill, S. Wilson, G. and J. W. Whittington, G. Williams, and W. Kleckner.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Mrs. H. W. Simpson of New York is visiting her mother, Mrs. Donna Jones, who is now convalescing from her dangerous illness.

Owing to the widespread interest in the Mills meetings, in which most of the society people are taking an active part, but little is doing in a social way.

The Arar Club meets at the residence of Mrs. M. F. Foster, No. 649 West Seventh street, Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served at 1 o'clock.

The rose carnival of John A. Logan W. R. C., which takes place this evening, promises to be a very enjoyable affair. An attractive program has been arranged and the ladies intend to make their guests enjoy themselves.

IN JAIL IN COLORADO.

A Man Wanted in Los Angeles For Burglary Behind the Bars.

Brush, the fourth man implicated in the Chinese robbery some months ago, with the Abbott brothers and Asevedo, has been located by the police authorities, but it is hardly likely that he will be brought back to answer for his crime. One of the Abbotts, it will be remembered, was acquitted, but the other brother and Asevedo were convicted. Asevedo, however, made his escape from the County Jail, and is now at large.

The evidence brought out in the Abbott and Asevedo cases was very strong against Brush—if anything, stronger against any of the others, and the police have been trying ever since the crime was committed to catch the fourth man. Some days ago Detectives Bosqui and Insley located Brush at Siebert, Kit Carson county, Colo., where he was passing under the name of J. B. Bowers.

Chief Glass at once entered into communication with Sheriff Higgin, and sent a photograph of Brush, which was identified, and the sheriff wrote back that he could get the man. He was requested to arrest him, and did so. In the meantime application was made to the Governor for a requisition, which brought back a reply to the effect that the fund for paying the expenses in such cases was exhausted, and no requisitions would be granted unless provision was made by the parties applying for the same for paying the expenses.

The matter was then taken before the Supervisors, but they declined to pay the expenses of a trip to Colorado and return, amounting to some $200. It was pointed out that there was no doubt as to securing a conviction, but the Supervisors thought that as the man was out of the State there was no use in bringing him back and sending him to the penitentiary.

In the meantime Brush is locked up in the Colorado jail, but unless something is promptly done he will be released to continue his criminal career. A lot of silverware was captured when Brush was taken, but so far as known it was not stolen in this city, and would seem to indicate that the fellow has been playing his vocation of "burgling" since he left Los Angeles.

MISS PROUDFOOT'S TROUBLES.

She Denies That She Intended to Defraud Her Creditors.

The San Francisco Examiner of Monday prints another chapter of Miss Proudfoot's business troubles, as follows:

Miss M. E. Proudfoot, the lady who ran the lunch rooms in the rear of the White House and who was compelled by business reverses to sell out a few days ago, is thinking very seriously of bringing suit against Wilson, the restaurant man.

When the lady found herself close pressed and unable to meet the few small debts outstanding against her she listened to the advice of a man she thought was her friend, and sold to a stranger for $500, the purchaser to pay a bill of $275 and to leave her in charge for three days until her provisions, which did not pass with the sale, were consumed.

The evening of the sale Wilson, who was the purchaser, put a number of men into the place and removed the furniture and other fixtures. Miss Proudfoot wants satisfaction for the breach of contract.

The lady was very much grieved at the sale of her business, and she is now, it is said, in a state of mind to bring suit against her creditors of a cent, but was unfortunate, as many others have been, who have engaged in business enterprises. What money she had she sank in the venture and realized nothing from it. The lady has not left the city, but is residing in the Arlington Hotel, at No. 127 Kearney street.

D. L. Platt of Los Angeles, who claims that he loaned Miss Proudfoot $1000 to embark in the restaurant business back of the White House, is not quite so certain that Miss Proudfoot failed honestly, and asserts that he is still out $500 of his money.

Mr. Pratt, who believes that Miss Proudfoot is a "splendid restaurateur," fails to see how she honestly failed, and asserts that before the sale of her effects to the Wilson restaurant, although he and others were creditors, she should have paid him and the others the balance due them.

Mr. Pratt says that Miss Proudfoot sold out her fixtures for $500, when he would have been glad, outside of his relation of creditor, to give $2000 for them.

It is likely that the business complications will be ventilated in court.

People's Store!

May 11, 1892.

Seeing is Believing.

When we commenced business in Los Angeles in October, 1891, our store was possibly the smallest then in the city. Today we are the largest, and the secret of our success and progression lies in our ability to place the consumer closer to the producer than our fellow merchants.

We have this advantage over all because we can buy in quantities from the manufacturers whose smaller merchants would be a lifetime in disposing of the same amount. It is our aim, through argument, to convince you of the fact that we sell our merchandise as a whole, at the lowest ratio of profit. There may be a few articles which are on a par with the prices of others. In the nature of business this cannot be helped, but in trading with us during the course of the year you will reap a saving of fully 25 per cent. Our merchandise is the best that is produced. We discount our bills and earn 5 per cent. on every dollar purchased before it enters the house. The result of our year's business showed a net profit of 10 per cent. on our investment, which is closer than the profits earned by banks. Our business has come to a point where, in a word, we are merely agents for the parties purchasing merchandise, and by dealing with us you make us your attorney to go to the largest commission houses in the Union and buy you ten yards of material at the same price for which the next merchant pays for a case. Our stock of merchandise was never in better condition than it is today. It never was of so high a standard, and when we look through it we are ourselves astonished.

For instance: Today we offer you a case of Scotch Gingham, 100 different pieces and styles. We guarantee these goods to be genuine Scotch Zephyr Gingham, and the price we offer them at is 20c a yard. We have had Scotch Gingham in our house at 50c a yard that would not compare with them in fineness, quality and finish. Another leader for today is a case of Satsuma Silks. This is a cotton fabric with silky finish. Jobbers asked us for these goods in case lots, 15c per yard. We lay them on our tables today at 15c for a single yard, if it be your pleasure. There never was a fabric made where the designs and printings were more exquisite. These are merely examples of what our entire stock consists of. The fact is, that we have a reputation in the city of New York for having more money than is needed in the prosecution of their business, and any one who has
